BOARD TO PLAN "Y" FUTURE IN JANESVILLE

Future plans for the Y. M. C. A. in Janesville, due to increase in the size of the city, are being discussed this afternoon by the board of directors of the local association, which is meeting with B. F. Denison of Chicago, member of the Y. M. C. A. international committee. Mr. Denison is in charge of the secretarial bureau of the association at Chicago. He was formerly secretary of the Omaha Y. M. C. A. Because of the rapid growth of this city, and the even more rapid growth expected in the near future, the board of directors is making plans to take care of much new work.

PERSONAL MENTION

County Treasurer A. M. Church was a business visitor in Beloit yesterday afternoon. Mrs. L. J. Cruise, San Diego, Cal., will visit for a few weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sheridan. Mrs. Patrick Little has returned from Plattville, where she visited her son, Rev. F. J. Little for several months. The fair board will meet tonight with Dr. W. A. Munn, who is its chairman. Important business is expected to be considered.

PRESBYTERIANS BACK FROM BIG CONFERENCE

Rev. J. A. Melrose returned yesterday afternoon from the New Era conference of the Presbyterian church, held at Chicago, at which representatives from five states were present. The new era movement maps out for the church a five-year program covering an expenditure of $14,000,000. The "Victory Drive" in which this amount is to be raised, means that there will be an increase of 135 percent in the benevolent funds of the church. Returning soldiers will be provided for with $600,000, a part of the fund. Another $500,000 will be sent to Europe, to aid the devastated churches there to rebuild and reorganize. Other delegates from this city were George Metcalf, Mrs. Isabel Lovejoy, Mrs. S. M. Smith, Mrs. Dr. Macchalis, Mrs. L. E. Kennedy, Mrs. Oscar Athon, Miss Grace Mount, and Miss Louise Hanson.

ADDITION TO MERCY HOSPITAL IS PLANNED

A unanimous resolution to build an addition to the Mercy hospital, enough for at least 40 more beds, and to start construction this spring, passed the hospital board of directors at a meeting last night. Because there is now a perpetual waiting list of approximately 30 patients, the board decided that something must be done immediately. "The institution is already too small to serve the city," one member said. It is altogether inadequate to meet the growth to come. There is room for the construction of the addition due to the recent purchase of property south of the hospital, which has a frontage of about 70 feet on Washington street. The board will meet again in two weeks, when definite plans will be laid. St. Loveloy was elected secretary of the board of the meeting last night. Thomas O. Howe is president. The other directors are F. B. Croak, N. L. Carle and W. H. Dougherty.

Alien Enemy Repatriation Carried Out Rapidly

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) London, Thursday, Feb. 13.—Edward Smith, home secretary, stated in the house of commons today that the general repatriation of alien enemies in the United Kingdom was being carried out as rapidly as possible, and that over six thousand had been repatriated since the armistice.

OBITUARY

Arthur C. Murray, who passed away at Milwaukee hospital, Milwaukee, shortly before five o'clock this morning following an operation for appendicitis, Thursday, according to word received here today. Decedent was born in Janesville in 1873 and resided here until a year ago.

W. A. Murray and Elizabeth Murray, brother and sister of the deceased, were with him constantly during his illness and will arrive home this afternoon. The body has been shipped to Milwaukee, to be taken to his home, 434 South Jackson street. He is survived by three sisters, Mary, Elizabeth and Theresa, and two brothers, William and Thomas, all of this city. Notice of funeral will be given later.

Miss Margie Fredendall and Fred Murray entertained a few friends at a Valentine party last evening. Those present were the Misses Wanda Schroeder, Hazel and Betty Gower, Edna Demore, and Jessa Stanley Hall, Darrell Sullivan, Harold Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sailer, and K. O. Schneider, Milwaukee.

WILSON READS FINAL DRAFT OF LEAGUE COVENANT

(Continued from Page 1.) They agree to establish at the seat of the league a mandatory commission to receive and examine the annual reports of the mandatory powers and to assist the league in ensuring the observance of terms of all mandates.

Article XX. "The high contracting parties will endeavor to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labor for men, women and children in their own countries and in all countries to which their commercial and industrial relations extend and to that end agree to establish as part of the organization of the league a permanent bureau of labor." Article XXI. "The high contracting parties agree that provision shall be made through the instrumentality of the league to secure and maintain freedom of transit in a equitable treatment for the commerce of all states members of the league, having in mind among other things special arrangements for the regions devastated during the war of 1914-1918."

To Control Existing Bureaus. Article XXII. "The high contracting parties agree to place under the control of the league all international bureaus already established by general treaties if the parties to such treaties consent. Furthermore, they agree that all such international bureaus to be constituted in future shall be placed under the control of the league."

Article XXIII. "The high contracting parties agree that every treaty or international engagement entered into hereafter by any state member of the league shall be forthwith registered with the secretariat of the league and as soon as possible published by him; and that no such treaty or international engagement shall be binding until so registered."

Article XXIV. "It shall be the right of the body of delegates from time to time to advise the reconsideration of any treaty or engagement of the league of treaties which have become inapplicable and of international conditions of which the continuance may endanger the peace of the world."

Article XXV. "The high contracting parties severally agree that the present covenant is accepted as abrogating all obligations entered into by them in connection with the terms thereof, and solemnly engage that they will not hereafter enter into any engagements inconsistent with the terms of this covenant, or of the powers, statutory hereto or subsequently admitted to the league shall, before coming a party to this covenant, have undertaken to abrogate or modify any inconsistent with the terms of this covenant. It shall be the duty of such power to take immediate steps to procure its release from such obligations. The committee will take effect when ratified by the states whose representatives compose the body of delegates."

AMERICANIZATION OF CHILDREN MAY GO ON

The county council of defense will probably not be reorganized, as was expected several days ago. The state council, asking the opinion of the local council, was informed by Secretary C. J. Smith that there was work enough left to make the continuance of the council profitable.

No notification of the fact that a bill asking for the reorganization of the council of defense has been presented to the legislature has been made. Presentation of bills stopped February 12, which would indicate that the council will continue.

"There is plenty of work left for the council of Rock county to do," said Mr. Smith today. "The work of the Americanization committee is extremely important." Rev. J. A. Melrose, who is chairman of the Americanization committee, said this afternoon that the committee had been suspended when the supposed council of defense disorganization was learned of. "The work will be recommenced if the county council continues to operate," he stated. "The committee has two main objects. The first is to investigate the teaching of foreign languages in schools of the county other than high schools, and the teaching of any subject in a foreign language in a constructive object is the instilling of patriotism. Much remains to be done in connection with giving the boy in the country school a chance to learn what true patriotism means." W. S. Ferrigo of Beloit, and Andrew McIntosh of Edgerton, with Rev. Melrose, make up the committee.

TWELVE SLACKERS IN JANESVILLE, REPORT

A careful final check of those who did not contribute to the county war chest was made by the Janesville members of the board last night disclosed the fact that there are 12 slackers in the city. Clinton was added to the list of towns with a perfect record. Edgerton, Edgerton, and the town of Avon each have one slacker, while Evansville has three.

George Walcott of Beloit conferred with Thomas O. Howe, chairman of the war chest board, this morning. The Beloit committee will meet this evening to check its delinquent names.

Publication of the names of "War chest slackers" will be made simultaneously over the entire county. The Janesville delinquents will be displayed here. Beloit's slackers, reported to be large in number, will be published in that city, and in the smaller towns those citizens who have failed to subscribe will be made public.

J. P. FITCH WILL REMODEL STORE

Fully awake to the possibilities relative to the coming of the General Motor Corporation, J. P. Fitch who operates a store at the corner of Center and Western avenues announced today that he would remodel his store making it larger and would carry a complete line of merchandise.

Mr. Fitch is exceedingly optimistic concerning the growth of the city and in discussing the prospects stated that that he was quite sure that the city would grow and that his neighborhood would be more in the heart of the city. He is planning to completely remodel his building and when finished will have an up to date store in every detail.

HOUSING COMMITTEE WILL MEET TONIGHT TO LAY CAMPAIGN PLAN

Forty members of the enlarged housing committee of the embryo Janesville Housing corporation will meet this evening at the Myers hotel to work out the details of the city-wide campaign for funds to be staged Wednesday. At that time the committee plans to reach every man in the city. Merchants and others who have not subscribed will be given an opportunity to secure stock shares.

"It is absolutely necessary that $100,000 be raised," said William McVicar, chairman of the housing committee this morning. "Our papers call for incorporation at $100,000 and we cannot incorporate for less than that amount under the law."

President J. P. Cullen of the Chamber of Commerce, explained this morning that W. C. Durant's support of the plan meant much, but that final success of the measure was up to Janesville citizens themselves. "Although Mr. Durant, president of the General Motors corporation, has stated definitely that the Samson Tractor plant would employ 5,000 men, this influx will not come any faster than the city can care for the men. Experience has shown that in cities where there has been mushroom growth, and the corporation is not prepared for another such boom."

"Janesville must stand united behind this corporation plan for providing the wage earner, the head of the family, with a decent home within his means. Such a home can be built at a reasonable cost. The housing committee has proof of that fact at the present time."

On Monday a meeting of the entire committee will be held at the Grand hotel. On Tuesday final instructions regarding the drive will be given, and on Wednesday "Janesville Housing Day" is expected to see the final $100,000 in the hands of the committee.

PAUTZ PRESENTS NEW CODE TO COMMITTEE

An extensive tentative building code was submitted to the Janesville Housing committee which met at the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night. Emil Pautz is chairman of the committee. The new plans were discussed by members of the committee, and a copy of the proposed code was taken by each of the six men for study.

The code provides for rules governing the construction of buildings in the city to become an ordinance. Provision for a plumbing and electrical inspector is made. The committee adjourned after a short discussion and will reconvene in a few days.

PLOT FOR SPARTACAN UPRISING UNEARTHED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Copenhagen, Thursday, Feb. 13.—Papers and letters found in the home of Karl Radak, the Russian Bolshevik emissary, whose arrest by the Berlin police was announced yesterday, disclosed he was planning a Spartacan uprising in March, not only in Berlin, but the entire country, according to Berlin dispatches. A Bolshevik army was planning to attack the east frontier, it is said.

MATHESON IN FAVOR OF COMMUNITY HOUSE TO HONOR HEROES

A. E. Matheson, chairman of the "Welcome Home" committee stated this morning that he has made a careful study of the bill introduced by Senator Bird relative to the erection of community houses at public expense.

Mr. Matheson is heartily in favor of the bill and is making every effort to interest the people of the community and especially those of the welcome home committee in regards to the bill. The cost of the building and the maintenance of the establishment shall be secured by taxation. Also the tax for the building shall not exceed nine mills on each dollar of assessed value. Mr. Matheson in discussing the bill stated that he was quite sure it would meet the approval of the people and it is his desire to have a building erected in this manner.

FATHERS TO DISCUSS MORALS OF CITY BOYS; BIG HIKE IS PLANNED

Invitations to fathers in each of the city's churches have been given to attend a secret conference this evening at the Y. M. C. A. at which the morals of Janesville youth will be discussed. The meeting will mark the close of Father's day of Father and Son week. Several important matters of interest to fathers who have the care of their boys at heart will be brought up.

Plans for a big hike tomorrow were completed by the committee this morning. The hike will start at three o'clock from the Y. M. C. A. and will end at an ideal camping spot chosen by the committee.

"The hike will be short enough so that the fathers need not feel discouraged," said A. S. Phelps, chairman this morning. All those going on the hike are requested to carry frankfurters or bacon and bread and to bring their own food. Coffee will be furnished.

"This hike will be one of the most important events of the week," said Phelps. "The father and son will walk together, having a chance to become better acquainted with one another. Business will be temporarily forgotten by the men, who will attempt to replace in themselves the spirit of boyhood. Only in this way can true companionship be secured."

At the conclusion of the hike, stunts of various kinds will be performed in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, under the supervision of W. P. Craig, physical director. Fathers will contest against their sons in some events, and in others the boys will contest among themselves. Refreshments will be served. The program will be completed between six and seven o'clock.

Fathers and sons will attend church together on Sunday, which will conclude the week.

AMERPOHL AND MOORE TO HEAD COMMITTEES

Appointments of chairman of two important committees were made by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors at the last meeting. Charles E. Moore, present county highway commissioner, was named chairman of the Chamber highway commission. Edward A. Amerpohl was appointed head of the city planning committee. Mr. Amerpohl has made an extensive study of city beautification. Both men will choose their own associates.

Local taxpayers who fail to pay their taxes by tomorrow evening will face a penalty of 2 per cent, according to the announcement made by City Treasurer George Muenchow.

Taxpayers this year are not as quick to pay their assessments as in past years and at present there is over $50,000 to be collected before the time limit expires Saturday evening.

The city treasurer has collected $283,167.57 up to this morning for property tax and $35,045.26 for income tax. $50,000 remains to be collected before the office closes tomorrow evening.

City Treasurer Muenchow announced that the office would be open this evening for the convenience of those wishing to pay their taxes.

Negro Held in Stabbing, to Have Hearing Thursday

Preliminary examination of Edward McMillen, colored, charged with stabbing Mrs. One Jones, negro, in Beloit Wednesday, will be held in municipal court at Beloit, Thursday morning. In the meantime the negro will spend his time at the county jail being unable to furnish $1,000 the amount of bail fixed by Judge Clark when he was arraigned yesterday.

Unless unexpected complications set in, Mrs. Jones will recover from her wounds, it was learned today. In his cell at the jail this morning, McMillen declared he hoped she would recover but refused to say anything about his knifing frayed except that he was intoxicated.

New Jail Turnkey Takes Job Tomorrow

Linus Waterman will take up the duties of turnkey at the county jail tomorrow morning, succeeding Robert O. Whipple, who leaves to enter business in Beloit. Mr. Whipple has completed moving his household goods to Beloit and Mr. Waterman has taken possession of the jail.

The departure from the city of the former sheriff is to be regretted. Mr. Whipple has made hundreds of friends during his residence here who join in wishing him success in his new enterprise.

AUSTRIAN'S LANGUAGE ROUSES COURT'S IRE

Edward Bell, a native of Austria, was quickly subdued in the municipal court this morning by Judge Maxfield when he attempted to fill the court room with blasphemous language.

Bell, an employee of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad was arrested for drunkenness. When taken before Judge Maxfield he was in an ugly mood.

"Not a d—cent will you get out of me," Bell yelled, the minutes he was told to stand up.

"I won't get no money from me," he roared, and then Judge Maxfield quickly told him to cut out the language.

When questioned he admitted he was a native of Austria and had not taken out his citizenship papers in the United States.

"Give me a rope and I will hang myself," he requested, but he was not granted his request, and as a parting salutation Judge Maxfield said "25 on doctos or 30 days."

John Curry was arrested and taken into court Wednesday morning, and after listening to a plea from Judge Maxfield to reform he promised the judge he would lead a better life.

His promise was soon forgotten, however, and this morning he was again on deck, but he did not present his usual natty appearance.

He entered a plea of guilty to the charge of intoxication and offered no excuse for his being in court. He was assessed $25 and costs or 30 days.

LOOKING AROUND

A question that is being asked by many is why basket ball referees are particular to have their hair combed while in the midst of the contest.

Charles "Bud" Gray whose disappearance caused much comment and speculation was found, wandering in the Chicago stockyards much to his friends' relief.

With the return of soldiers, several members of the Arcadia club are having a hard time finding lady partners for the K. I. A. dance. Port Atkinson and Delavan will be well represented.

James Zanias, the popular manager of the Apollo theater is out with the statement that the prospects for a bigger and better city are better now than ever. James has an enviable record as a prognosticator.

A discharged colored soldier, has arrived in the city and will open a window washing campaign. Possibly he will better call on some of the owners of business blocks and also ask, Rev. Mahoney for the names of the buildings he had in mind when he made his farewell address.

FEW ASK LODGING AT POLICE STATION

"Floppers" or men wanting a bed for the night, have been conspicuously absent at the Janesville police station this season and up to the present time the number has not been anywhere as large as in past years.

Only nine persons have requested beds this winter and five of the nine claimed they were residents of St. Louis and being attracted by newspaper ads stating there was plenty of work in Janesville. They were unable to find work upon their arrival.

In past years the influx of "floppers" generally started early in November and continued until April. It has been the rule of the department to shelter the men at night and the number generally ran about five or six an evening.

Plenty of work and hundreds in the army is the only reason the police can give for the decrease in the number of men seeking shelter in "ragrants" and hobos have been given to understand that they are not wanted in Janesville and the majority of them are not the least bit anxious to pay this city a visit.

Early spring always brought a lot of the men to this city. Most of them were enroute to Baraboo to obtain a job with Ringling's circus and stopped off here for the night. They always sought a bed at the police station and left the next morning for the "Circus City."

This year Ringlings are not quartered at Baraboo and this also is said to be one reason for the decrease.

Chief of Police William Gower in discussing the situation this morning stated that it has been the quietest year since he has been on the force. In the winter of 1918, 842 men sought shelter at the police station. The following year 632 asked permission of the police to sleep in a cell during the night.

Equipment Inspection on Saturday Morning

Owing to a change in orders at the last minute, the inspection of equipment of the members of Company E, Wisconsin State Guards which was scheduled for last evening will not take place until Saturday.

Late yesterday afternoon Captain Edward Baumann received word from Major David Atwood at Madison that the inspection would not be held until Saturday. Major Atwood and E. J. Grove of Camp Douglas will arrive in the city tomorrow morning to conduct the inspection.

Every piece of equipment issued the local soldiers by the state will have to be at the Armory by tomorrow morning in all of his equipment do so at once.

The general inspection of the company and armory will be held in the near future, but no word has been received by Captain Baumann from General King relative to the date of the inspection.

ACCOUNTING CLASS ORGANIZED HERE

A course of five talks on the federal income tax problems will be given in Janesville by Prof. F. H. Elwell before a class of business men and women of this city and surrounding towns, which is just being organized. The date for the opening talk has not been announced.

Prof. Elwell is head of the accounting work of the University of Wisconsin School of Commerce and president of the state board of certified public accounts. The course is being arranged through the University Extension division. Wilbur M. Dethlefs, organizer, has already enrolled a large class. He will be here for several days.

The demand for such study here, particularly among bankers and lawyers, came as a result of several enrolling in a course to be given in Madison by Burt Williams, federal revenue collector.

TOBACCO GROWERS TO MEET AGAIN TUESDAY

Tobacco growers of Rock county will meet again in West Side Odd Fellows' hall, next Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of completing the organization of the Rock County Tobacco Growers' association. Constitution and by laws will be adopted and plans discussed for the casing and disposal of tobacco. Enthusiasm of the growers shown at their last meeting last Monday predicts a large attendance.

Shoemaker went to Madison yesterday where they drew up articles of organization which will be presented at the meeting Tuesday.

Fare Raise Hearing to Be Held Next Week

Hearing on the application of the Rockford Interurban company's application to increase its local passenger rate in this city to six cents will be held before the railroad commission at Madison next Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The hearing was originally set for this morning but word was received last evening that it had been adjourned one week.

James E. G. Cunningham and W. H. Dougherty, representing the interurban company, will appear at the hearing Friday.

Additional Testimony Given in Reed Trial

Additional testimony was taken in county court today in the guardianship case of Maurice Reed. Testimony of Mr. Reed's witnesses was given in an effort to prove that he is not incompetent and well able to manage his own affairs without a guardian.

Judge Philfield's decision will doubtless be rendered in the course of a few days.

Church News

Brigadier and Mrs. J. C. Smith will conduct the services in Salvation Army hall, Saturday and Sunday. They are at the head of the Lakes division and take the place of Major and Mrs. Charles R. Boyd who have been transferred to Los Angeles.

The Miriam Bible club of the Methodist church will serve an oyster supper at the church tonight from 5:30 to 7 p. m. The benefit of the supper will go toward installing an acousticon in the church auditorium. This simple device in the nature of a telephone will have a transmitter on the pulpit with phone connections run to certain pews. This will enable persons partially deaf to hear the sermon and music, or a lecture. Many of the largest churches in the country have installed this instrument to the great satisfaction of persons unable to hear.

Navy Officer Comes Here to Obtain More Recruits

So numerous have been the inquiries about enlistment in the navy to Postmaster J. J. Cunningham during the past week, that it has been thought advisable to bring a recruiting officer here this Saturday.

Mr. Albrecht of Madison, chief master-at-arms, will be at the post office all day tomorrow for the purpose of talking with applicants and their parents. His recruiting expedition here last Saturday and wants to get several more recruits tomorrow.

Eugene Hilt is Back From Verdun Front

Eugene Hilt, son of E. E. Hilt, who has returned from overseas, saw a month's service on the Verdun front. Hilt went to Europe as a wagoner in the 125th supply company, and was sent to the front line. He served several months in France.

is as beneficial to the hard-working man of business as it is to the growing child. Scott's imparts the quality to the blood that enables the body to grip strength fast. Scott's helps solve the problem that faces every business-man—that of keeping up with the wear and tear on the body.

HERE'S QUICK RELIEF FOR YOUR TIRED, STRAINED MUSCLES

When your muscles become tired and swollen and the joints become stiff, your circulation poor, and your suffering makes you irritable, an application of Sloan's Liniment gives you quick relief—kills pain, starts up a good circulation, relieves congestion. It is easier and cleaner to use than musky plasters or ointments, acts quickly and does not clog the pores. It does not stain the skin.

For sprains, strains, bruises, "black and blue" spots, Sloan's Liniment reduces the pain and eases the soreness. Certainly fine for rheumatism, stiff neck, sciatica, lame back, toothache. You don't need to rub—it penetrates. Its use is so universal that you'll consider Sloan's Liniment a friend of the whole family. Generous size bottles at druggists everywhere.

Size: 11 1/2 x 17 1/2 Inches—In Rotogravure
READY FOR FRAMING

FREE--with Next Sunday's Chicago Tribune

In commemoration of the birthday of George Washington, The Chicago Tribune will issue, as a special supplement with next Sunday's Chicago Tribune, a handsome reproduction of the famous Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington. This is the painting that was the favorite of Martha Washington—the one she referred to as "the true Washington."

This famous portrait is regarded by students of colonial history as the best likeness of Washington in existence. Reproduced in soft tints of rotogravure, size 11 1/2 x 17 1/2 inches, ready for framing, it will be given free with next Sunday's Tribune. Ask your newsdealer today to put aside a Tribune for you, thus making sure of receiving this special supplement.

JAPAN'S POSITION.

Developments of the last few days
indicate that Japan is out for everything she can get. She played a small part in the war, because it was
the desire of the allies that she should do so, but she seems to be playing a large part in the affairs of the peace conference.

Americans are optimistic and idealistic and see the world through rose-colored spectacles. We played a big part in the world war and refuse to accept any of the spoils. We are satisfied with bringing about an arrangement which will bring peace and comfort to all nations.

Our soldiers wish Japan to send
an army into Siberia or otherwise take part in the conflict. Japan having profited greatly and lost little by reason of her being able to stay out of the conflict, desires to reap further
large gains, not only at the expense of Germany, but at the expense of China
and even to the detriment of the United States.

Our soldiers helped to drive the Germans out of France and we do not ask any compensation in the way of French territory. The Japanese drive the Germans out of China—an easy task in comparison to ours—and now they want to annex that part of China from which they drove the Germans. More than that Japan has gone to the peace conference expecting that she will get her right to order China's affairs. It appears that while the western world was busy fighting Germany, Japan got a grasp on China and refuses to let go.

The determination of Japan to retain Marshall and Caroline Islands gives food for thought. If she gets control of these islands she will have
control in isolating the Philippines.
If she is successful in this move, the natural question which arises is, "How long before she will want the Philippines, too?"

Japan desires to expand in another direction—Siberia. If she had been allowed to send her army into Eastern Siberia, she would, no doubt, today
be sitting on her right to retain the rich mining and agricultural land near Yakovsk.

Germany's imperialistic ambitions
have been curbed. We have nothing to fear in that quarter, at least for some time to come. The allied nations of Europe are about to accept the high standards of international conduct set by the United States. Japan must accept them, too, if we are to hope for the permanent triumph of justice and international good feeling
all over the world.

HOME BUILDING.

The nation just now is concerned
with the problem of stamping out Bolshevism in this country. Means of preventing extreme radicalism, which results from discontent, are being sought much more than in the past.
Making an investigation to determine
what is to be done with the labor surplus which is increasing each week.

Janesville has a problem of her own. She can hire hundreds of men
as soon as she can get suitable houses
for them to live in. Her problem is not as great as the problem the whole country faces, but it is necessary that
some solution be found at once.

Indiana is preparing to fight radicalism and unemployment through a
home-building and home-owning campaign. H. V. Haymaker, who as representative of the U. S. League of Building and Loan associations is cooperating with the department of labor, talks of the Indiana plan.

"It shall not be surprising if Indiana
makes a remarkable showing this year
in a campaign against radicalism and
unemployment through home-building
and home-owning," says Mr. Hay-maker. In his address before the annual convention of the Indiana League
of Savings and Loan associations in Indianapolis, President W. B. Reed
insisted that the cure for both these menaces was homes and home-owners. Reed's appeal for a state-wide campaign for home owning met an enthusiastic response and out of it will come, I believe, a state-wide home-
building drive that will have the encouragement of the state and municipal officials. The effect of such a campaign is bound to be profoundly
beneficial for the home owning man
in every community takes the responsibilities of citizenship seriously and is not prone to quickly take up untried social and political theories and experiments.

While the figures are by no means
complete, data obtained by the division of public works and construction
development of the information and education section clearly indicate a revival of home building in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Ohio. Activities in this field not yet are normal, but from
week to week an increase is shown indicating a growing confidence on the part of private building interests.

All authorities in the building industry agree there is a pressing demand for residential buildings. The department of labor reports show a steadily increasing labor surplus. With the department's figures may be considered Frank Morrison's statement.
As secretary of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Morrison's estimate is significant. He says there are 500-000 men now out of employment in the United States. There is money,
and America has come to be the richest nation by far in the world.

With these elements favorable to building and construction work, the results of the investigation of the division of public works and construction development as to why building is not being resumed more rapidly, is interesting. High prices for material and the reluctance of banks to make loans appear to be the two large lies in the indictment.

A concise statement of the situation
as it appears to him is made for the information and education service by William M. Garland, of Los Angeles,
who now is in Washington. Mr. Garland is president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and since March, 1918, has been in Washington co-ordinating the work of his association with the efforts of various government departments. Mr. Garland says: "I am especially pleased that the secretary of labor is taking an active interest in stimulating co-operative
endeavor on the part of laboring men,
industrial associations and industrial
professionals to bring about a much needed resumption of building activities."

"Many members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards specialize in building and selling houses
and, by reason of an acute housing
situation in many cities, were actively engaged in building operations until
about a year ago when the secretary of the treasury made a statement that
all building, not necessary to war activities, should cease."

"Since the armistice was signed, the housing demand has increased. There is a desire on the part of real estate
men to resume operations, but they find everywhere a lack of funds for building purposes."

"The resumption of the building
industry is one of the most important things to be encouraged during the readjustment from a war to a peace
basis. It will be the means of employing thousands of skilled artisans,
take care of the demand for homes,
and develop a spirit of real American-ism throughout the United States."

One of the men who did his war job
well has been rewarded by President Wilson. Major General Enoch H.
Crowder, judge advocate general of the army, has been nominated by the President to succeed himself for a term of four years. In handling the conscription problem Gen. Crowder
made a most excellent record.

Janesville is going to make the housing campaign a success. Backed by the Chamber of Commerce, the same men who have successfully put
over every drive which has been beneficial to the country and the community are going to take off their coats, roll up their sleeves and solicit $100,000 worth of stock subscription
for the housing corporation.

The efforts of the United States employment service in finding work for discharged soldiers and sailors are worthy of commendation. The local office has been able, thus far, to find employment for many who have applied. Much credit must be given to employers for the co-operation they have extended.

If the unacquainted public holds
the opinion that the local Chamber of Commerce is not a bee-hive of industry, a glance at the records for Wednesday, for example, might remove any doubt. Forty-nine business
visitors called on that day, and 43
telephone calls were answered.

Rock county will answer the need
for good roads, this spring, by building 30 miles of new macadam and six miles of concrete, in addition to repairing and resurfacing about 20 miles. This is the first and important step in a constructive highway program.

Camp Grant does not want the Willard Dempsey fight, according to army officers. This should please advocates of clean sport in this section of the country, as most of them are satisfied to have the scene of battle
(?) as far removed as possible.

Farmers in session at Washington
ask regulation of the meat industry at this session of congress. They accuse
the packers of using loaded dice to build up an alleged monopoly. The farmers want an opportunity to "roll
the bones."

The reason one sees so many youngsters on expanded is because they have found that Dad really has an interest
in them. "Father and Son week" is truly a success this year.

Ignace Paperevski, famous pianist,
is not only able to tickle the ivories
in a pleasing manner, but since leading
the republic of Poland in its fight for freedom, he has been able to win
more plaudits of his followers.

THEIR OPINIONS

It Pays to Advertise.
It is claimed that the warm winter
is interfering with trade. Dealers who advertise, though, get a class of customers who know it's poor business
considering weather when you get a good offer—Marionette Eagle-Star.

She Doesn't Want To.
A prominent German newspaper declares Germany will not join the league
of nations unless she secures recognition
of her colonial policy. Will Germany never learn that she has lost the right to dictate?—Oshkosh Northwestern.

An Optimist.
The Scotchman who said it would take thirty years to end the war, is
for the peace conference and twenty years to roll up the barbed wire, is an optimist. He forgot about the miles of Red Tape.—Appleton Crescent.

People's Rights.
Well! Well! The Wisconsin state
railroad commission has refused to allow the Ashland water company to raise its rates. This legislative investigation has seemed to have quite a salutary effect on the old boys. They are actually beginning to see that the people have some rights.—Ashland Press.

The Difference.
The only difference between the
boss and the help these days is that the help wears skirts.—Madison Democrat.

Some Job.
The fellows who set on that prohibition commission in Washington and
said they were going to have some job
going to have some job. Possibly it might be well to make them elect
by the people rather than appointive
by the chief executive.—Koshong
News.

Boy Detects Convicts.
Rhinecland, Feb. 14.—Wallace Jensen, 19, and James De Lung, 21, both escaped convicts from the Michigan
state prison at Marquette, were arrested at Tripoli. The men were serving terms for robbery, were described as 25-year-old Clarence Lenderwood of North Grandon.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

WHAT ELSE TO TEACH THE BOY.

What else to teach the boy who holds
your hand
And looks to you with trusting in
his eyes
You, who to him are wisest of the wise
Than first to love and serve his native
land?

To cling to honor always and to stand
Above the lure of any golden prize:
To choose to lose than win by sheath
and lies;
To build his fame on rock and not on
sand
To fight a fair fight bravely, but to be Content when he has done the best
he can.

To keep his spirit fit for God to see,
As true and white as when the
joust began;
If strength shall fail, to miss the victory
But from the field to come no less
a man?

WHO'S WHO in the Daily News

IRVIN S. COBB.
Irvin S. Cobb, American humorist,
has been made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France.
It is presumed that this honor has been conferred upon him, not on account of his humorous works, but in recognition of his recent writings
in behalf of the Cobb, who is
one of America's
most popular hu-
morists, was born
in Paduchah,
Ky., 43 years
ago.

He worked on
the papers in his
home town, and
became the editor of one of
them at the age of 19.
Afterward he went to New York and his
humorous work
won him a national reputation.

In 1911 he branched into fiction
and became a regular member of the staff of the Saturday Evening Post
at the beginning of the war he was sent by the Saturday Evening Post as war correspondent to Europe.

He saw the downfall of Belgium,
and called home and lectured about it.
Since then he has been back to the scene of the conflict and witnessed the war on many fronts.

ON THE SPUR
OF THE MOMENT
—ROY K. MOUTON—

HER CROWNING GLORY.
I saw her on the street
In the full glow of the noonday sun
And her hair was flaxen and
It seemed so wonderful
A person who was with me said:
"Last week she was a brunette
With hair like the raven's wing
And now look at her.
I saw her on the following day
And her hair was red—
The red that is in the flag—
And in the flannel shirt.
In honest flannel red as one sees
In the Italian sunset.
"How can such things be?" we asked.
And our friend said:
"We will inquire, and he did
"How do you get that way?"
He asked politely, hat in hand.
"How do you pass from yellow to red?"
She stared at him stonily and replied:
"Hemmer, you big boob—hemmer.
Only six bucks in a hemmer shop."
We had heard of a hemmer
But never of a hemmer shop.
And we can't even find hemmer
in the dictionary.
The longer you live
The less you find out.

Arthur Hammerstein says: "A half-rate ticket broker who has grown
rich is a living refutation of the old saying, 'Never do anything by halves.'"

CATARRH

Quickly Engled by a Pleasant, Healing
Antiseptic
The little Hyomei inhaler is made of hard rubber and can easily be carried in pocket or purse. It will last a few days.

Into this inhaler you pour a few drops of the antiseptic. The germ-killing action of the antiseptic begins its work of banishing catarrhal germs.
Hyomei is made of Australian eucalypt-
to combine with other antiseptics and
is very pleasant to breathe.

It is guaranteed to banish catarrh,
bronchitis, sore throat, croup, coughs
or colds or money back. It often cleans out a stuffed up head in two minutes.

Sold by Smith Drug Co. and druggists
everywhere.
A complete outfit, including inhaler
and one bottle of Hyomei, costs but little, while extra bottles, if afterward
needed, may be obtained of any druggist.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb.
14, 1879.—A woman from the fifth
ward put a doctor to rest in a scalping this morning. She said she received it from her husband from the "very heel of the boot she bought for him." The woman was more excited
than her husband, who had been doing it for her. The love-
little love spat will probably be settled without recourse to court.

RURAL TEACHERS TO MEET HERE SATURDAY

Over 50 rural school teachers are expected to attend the conference to be held at the Rock county school
school all day tomorrow. This is the first conference of the present school year. Principal F. J. Lowth is looking forward to a large attendance. The former have been customary
to hold about four of these meetings
annually, but on account of the influenza epidemic last fall it was not possible to hold one.

Valuable suggestions and hints on
teaching will feature the conference.
Several talks will be given and time
will be allowed for open discussion.
The morning session begins at 10 o'clock. W. L. Anderson, state graded school inspector, will speak. Supt. O.
D. Antisdel will be one of the speakers at the afternoon session which will commence at 2:15 o'clock.

The program follows:

MILK--The Cheapest of Nature's Foods

Dame Nature, in her wisdom, has provided Milk as
the staple—the universal
and economical—food for all mankind. Placed on a comparative basis with
heavy foods, it is cheaper
than beef, veal, pork, potatoes, beans, and a score of other articles used for daily
food.

In these days of high living cost and food conservation it behooves everyone
to cut down on their supply
of meats and other heavy
foods and DRINK MORE MILK.

Indispensible to Health in Young
and Old

For growing children
pure, rich milk is an absolute necessity. It contains all of the elements necessary to healthy, vigorous
growth and development.
It is a bone-builder and tissue-builder. It nourishes
and builds up the body,
makes for keen intellect and
is particularly helpful to children in their school
work.

But do not look upon Milk as merely a food for children. It is equally beneficial and healthful in adults
alike. Get the habit of drinking a quart of good,
pasteurized and clarified
milk EVERY DAY and
note how you'll improve in health.

CHAPTER V.

The Golden Autumn.
Sabron longed for a change with autumn, when the falling leaves made the roads golden roundabout the Chateau d'Esclignac. He thought he would like to go away. He rode his horse one day up to the property of the hard-hearted unforgiving lady and, finding the gate open, rode through the grounds up to the terrace. Seeing no one, he sat in his saddle looking over the golden country to the Rhone and the castle of the good King Rene, where the autumn mists were like banners floating from towers.

There was a solitary beauty around the lovely place that spoke to the young officer with a sweet melancholy. He fancied that Miss Redmond must often have looked out from one of the windows, and he wondered which one. The terrace was deserted and leaves from the vines strewn it with red and golden speckles. Pitchoune raced after them, for the wind started them flying, and he rolled his tawny little body over and over in the rustling leaves. Then a rabbit, which before the arrival of Sabron had been sitting comfortably on the terrace stones, scuttled away like mad, and Pitchoune, somewhat hindered by his limp, tore after it.

The deserted chateau, the fact that there was nothing in his military life beyond the routine to interest him now in Tarascon, made Sabron eagerly look forward to a change, and he waited for letters from the minister of war which would send him to a new post.

The following day after his visit to the chateau he took a walk. Pitchoune at his heels, and stood aside in the highroad to let a yellow motor pass him, but the yellow motor at that moment drew up to the side of the road while the chauffeur got out to adjust some portion of the mechanism. Some one leaned from the yellow motor window and Sabron came forward to speak to the Marquise d'Esclignac and another lady by her side.

"How do you do, Monsieur? Do you remember us?"

(Had he ever forgotten them?) He regretted so very much not having been able to dine with them in the spring.

"And your sick friend?" asked Madame d'Esclignac keenly, "did he recover?"

"Yes," said Sabron, and Miss Redmond, who leaned forward, smiled at him; and extended her pretty hand. Sabron opened the motor door.

"What a darling dog!" Miss Redmond cried. "What a bewitching face he has! He's an Irish terrier, isn't he?"

Sabron called Pitchoune, who diverted his attention from the chauffeur to come and be hailed up by the collar and presented. Sabron shook off his reluctance.

"Let me make a confession," he said with a courteous bow. "This is my very sick friend. Pitchoune was at the point of death the night of your time of Miss Redmond's song. Although Sabron had heard it several times, he did not know the words or that they were of a semi-religious, extremely sentimental character which would have been difficult to translate into French. He did not know that they ran something like this:

Good keep you safe, my love,
All through the night;
Rest close in his encircling arms
Until the light.

And there was more of it. He only knew that there was a pathos in the tune which spoke to his warm heart; which caressed and captivated him and which made him long deeply for a happiness he thought it most unlikely he would ever know.

There had been many pictures added to his collection. Miss Redmond at dinner, Miss Julia Redmond—he knew her first name now—before the piano; Miss Redmond in a smart coat, walking with him down the alley, while Pitchoune chased flying leaves and apparitions of rabbits hither and thither.

The Count de Sabron had always dreaded just what happened to him. He had fallen in love with a woman beyond his reach, for he had no fortune whatsoever, nothing but his captain's pay and his hard soldier's life.

A wanderer's life and one which he hesitated to ask a woman to share. In spite of the fact that Madame d'Esclignac was agreeable to him, she was not cordial, and he understood that she did not consider him a part for her niece. Other guests, as well as he, had shared her hospitality. He had been jealous of them, though he could not help seeing Miss Redmond's preference for himself. Not that he wanted to help it. He recalled that she had really sung to him, decidedly walked by his side when there had been more than the quartette, and he felt, in short, her sympathy.

"Pitchoune," he said to his companion, "we are better off in Algiers, mon vieux. The desert is the place for us. We shall get rid of fancies there and do some hard fighting one way or another."

Pitchoune, whose eyes had followed the cat out of sight, sprang upon his master and seemed quite ready for the new departure.

"I shall at least have you," Sabron said. "It will be your first campaign. We shall have some famous runs and I shall introduce you to a camel and make you acquainted with several denkeys, not to speak of the historic Arab steeds. You will see, my friend, that there are other animals besides yourself in creation."

"A telegram for mon capitaine," Brunet came in with the blue envelope which Sabron tore open.

"A telegram for mon capitaine," Brunet came in with the blue envelope which Sabron tore open.

You will take with you neither horses nor dogs.

It was an order from the minister of war, just such a one as was sent to some half-dozen other young officers, all of whom, no doubt, felt more or less discomfited.

Sabron twisted the telegram, put it in the fireplace and lighted his cigarette with it, watching Pitchoune who, finding himself a comfortable corner in the armchair, had settled down for a nap.

"So," nodded the young man aloud. "I shall not even have Pitchoune."

He smoked, musing. In the rigid discipline of his soldier's life he was used to obedience. His softened eyes, however, and his nervous fingers as they pulled at his mustache, showed that the command had touched him.

"What shall I do with you, old fellow?"

Although Sabron's voice was low, the dog, whose head was down upon his paws, turned his bright brown eyes on his master with so much confidence and affection that it completed the work. Sabron walked across the floor, smoking, the spurs on his heels clacking, the light shining on his brilliant boots and on his uniform. He was a splendid-looking man with race and breeding, and his combined with his masculine force the gentleness of a woman.

"They want me to be lonely," he thought. "All that the chiefs consider is the soldier—not the man—even the companionship of my dog is denied me. What do they think I am going to do out there in the long eastern evenings?" He reflected. "What does the world expect an unaccompanied wanderer to do?" There are many things and the less thought about them, the better.

"A letter for Monsieur le Capitaine," Brunet returned with a note which he presented stiffly, and Pitchoune, who chose in his little brain to imagine Brunet an intruder, sprang from the chair like lightning, rushed at the servant, seized the leg of his pantaloons and began to worry them, growling. Brunet regarding him with adoration. Sabron had not thought aloud the last words of the telegram, which he had used to light his cigarette.

"Nor will it be necessary to take a personal servant. The indigenes are capable ornaments."

As he took the letter from Brunet's salver he said curtly:

"I am ordered to Algiers and I shall not take horses nor Pitchoune."

DINNER STORIES

The office telephone in a well known surgeon's office rang. The doctor himself answered the phone. A childish voice inquired, "Who is this?"

The doctor readily recognized the voice of his seven-year-old boy. Although an exceedingly busy man, he is ever ready for a bit of fun, if the opportunity permits, and anticipating such at this time, replied, "This is the smartest man in the city. The child has been a moment and replied, 'I beg your pardon, sir, it is the wrong number,' and hung up."

Little Willie, together with his parents, was invited to a Sunday dinner at the home of his uncle. Chicken was the piece de resistance of the gladsome layout, and being a great lover of the dairy mouse, Willie expanded his appetite to fit the occasion.

When the dessert was served the youngster had to balk. Manfully he made two or three stabs at the dish, and then gazed at it with a dejected expression.

"What's the matter, Willie?" asked his uncle, with a smiling glance at the youngster. "You look mournful."

"That's just what the matter is," pathetically answered Willie. "I am more'n full."

A grizzled sergeant was drilling a squad of rookies when, to save their time, he said to them: "I want you to know that I am not a N. C. O. I am a sergeant. No matter what they attempted, they seemed to invariably get it wrong, and finally the N. C. O., losing his patience, turned to them and said:

"When I was a small boy my mother gave me some tin soldiers. I lost them and I cried bitterly; but I shall cry no more. I've found them!"

First Quarter: Lesson VII. Exodus XXI-17; February 16, 1919.

Golden Text: Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself. Luke X. 27.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS.
After the death of Egypt, the towering, thunder-smitten cliffs of Sinai would be all the more impressive. The place seems isolated by nature—the Almighty's secret audience-chamber. The most nonchalant traveler feels perforce the spell of awful grandeur. He recognizes at once the appropriateness of nature's setting for that scene of superlative majesty.

A hundred days had passed since Moses and Miriam had sung their peans on the shore—days in which bitter waters had been sweetened, quails and manna had been gathered, and the hordes of Amalek overcome at Rephidim. And now three million people stand upon the four hundred acres of bowling floor, and gaze at the granite throne of the Almighty towering over a thousand feet above them.

Nature was agitated as on the point of dissolution. That pyramidal altar shook and smoked and blazed with Jehovah's fire. The air was thick with the fragrance of incense. There were angel attendants also, as Stephen and the author of Hebrews affirm. There was a sound as of a trumpet exulting a crescendo. But speech of man breaks down in effort to describe the Theophany, this most august sight of earth and greatest event by far of the old covenant.

The holiness of God was significantly indicated by the barrier set up between the multitude and the mountain, and the extreme penalty upon man or beast for so much as touching Jehovah's temporary and material throne. A day, too, had been spent in ablutions before the people could so much as stand in the divine presence.

As the glorious scene was, it did not amount to, as Hegel affirms, "an absolute enslavement of human individuality by the majesty of the divine personality." Here was the bond of the covenant, and that always implies the freedom of both parties. It was the establishment of conjugal relation. In that secret shrine of nature God married his people. Having first won their consent, which they expressed in the words, "All that the Lord hath spoken we will do." This was the coronation of Jehovah, the establishment of theocracy, but the setting of it up with the full consent of the governed.

The Ten Words formed in the air by the power of God, and distinctly heard, understood, and agreed to by the whole nation, are the basic principles from which all human codes have since been developed. Like the steel frame which holds a towering edifice, the Ten Words are the framework of society. There is an old tradition of the rabbis which affirms that God spoke in a tongue that divided itself into the seventy languages then extant, and extended thus audibly over the whole earth. That, of course, is fiction. But that the Decalogue is the cradle of all codes of conduct is a fact.

It is of comparatively small moment how we divide the law, whether with Philo into two pentads, or with Augustine into three and seven. What was dealing with the race in its childhood, and their digits were evidently intended to help them remember the tenfold law. They could keep and count the Decalogue in their fingers.

It is commonly believed to have contained the laws which express man's duty to God, the other his duty toward his fellows. The first commandment, the second, the third, the fourth, the fifth, the sixth, the seventh, the eighth, the ninth, the tenth.

(1) other gods, (2) images, (3) the name of God, (4) the Sabbath. The second (1) parents, (2) murder, (3) adultery, (4) stealing, (5) false witness, (6) covetousness, (7) pride.

In this vast audience-chamber, the natural sublimity of which had been

When you are in perfect health, and are enjoying a strong and vigorous vitality, it is then that your blood is free from all impurities. You should be very careful and give heed to the slightest indication of impure blood. A sluggish circulation is often indicated by an impaired appetite, a feeling of lassitude and a general weakening of the system. It is then that you should promptly take a few bottles of S. S. S., the great blood purifier and strengthener. It will cleanse the blood thoroughly and build up and strengthen the whole system. S. S. S. is sold by all druggists. Indescribably enhanced by this superb scene, the whole nation tarried for eleven months, as if in constitutional assembly, until the fundamental principles of the Decalogue had been drawn out in particular statutes: ethical, sacerdotal, judicial, and civil. Then at length this movable commonwealth, this pilgrim nation, took up its march, compacted and defended by such an ethico-religious constitution as had never been dreamed of before.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.
The law was a "boy-leader," the stars whose task it was to take the children to the tutor. It is holy, just, and good; but is also revelation to man of his own inveterate sinfulness. It strikes all excuses dead upon the spot. It is a moral law, and at the same time discloses to himself man's utter impotence, and leads him to seek a pitying eye, a delivering arm. The office of the law is finely depicted in the Epistles to the Romans and Galatians.

How can a consciously and confessedly imperfect morality bring a perfect salvation? Cause must be sufficient to produce effect; yet what a magnificent seem content to remain under the law, with its ordinances of death, and that too when grace, with its gift of eternal life, is so freely proffered.

The moral law, broken, magnificent salon, spacious enough to contain the human race. Within its four walls is everything really conducive to human happiness and advancement. There God would have us stay. The walls are pierced with doors varying in size and consciousness. It matters little whether a man goes out at a large door, or a small one, or a plain view or some clandestine chink. The question is, has he gone out? If so, he is a free-born, a transgressor. The law is no more. Having broken it at the point of honor, he has broken the whole law. What mortal tongue can affirm absolute obedience in thought and word as well as deed? Every mouth is stopped. A world is guilty.

The law of Sabon is imperative. It is affirmed that the second commandment is a deathblow to art. Either ignorant of the fact that, in spite of the commandment, Moses went on his Divine command and cast brazen oxen and golden cherubim, or insensitively in putting a meaning on the commandment which it never intended to have, he has broken the whole law. THIN PEOPLE OF JANESVILLE

Bibro-Phosphate will give you a steady increase of firm, healthy flesh each day. It supplies an essential substance to the brain and nerve in the active force of the body. Bibro-Phosphate replaces nerve waste and creates new strength and energy. Sold by Smith Drug Co., in Janesville and most druggists under definite guarantee of results or money back.

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps are prepared with potash, which is much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary multifid coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get multifid coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Who Is Jesus Christ?

(THIRD SERMON)

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of the Evening Classes,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—He saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am?—Matt. 16:15.

In two previous sermons we considered the character of Christ, his Word and his work as witnesses of him. We now consider another fact of his life that will help us to answer his searching question. It is his resurrection from the dead.

Proof of His Deity. Paul, in his epistle to the Romans, places the resurrection of Christ before us as a certain proof of his deity. "Declared," he says,

"to be the Son of God with power, according to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead" (1:4).

Paul wrote these words not more than thirty years after the event. If Christ had not risen, it would have been an easy matter to have proved his falsity. Paul knew that Jesus was true. As Luke says, Christ showed himself to alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom (Acts 1:3).

In recent years the resurrection of Christ has not been given the place it should hold in helping us to answer Christ's question—perhaps because pulpits and pews had lapsed too much of German criticism. Now that it is no longer popular to peddle wares made in Germany, we may consider afresh this phase of truth, as an evidence of the deity of our Lord.

The resurrection of Christ is the best attested fact of history. Gilbert West, lawyer and skeptic, found it so when he set out to demolish it. And so will any honest mind today.

The proofs of Christ's resurrection may not satisfy all minds, for if Christ is risen, he is the Son of God with power; and certain people do not want a Christ before whom they must bow and confess that he is Lord to the glory of God.

It is not the purpose at this time to adduce the Scriptural proofs of Christ's resurrection. They are at hand for anyone to study who will. Suffice it to say that there are fourteen witnesses and classes of witnesses to the resurrection of Christ. Do you desire to know who Jesus Christ is? Then I challenge you to study, with an unprejudiced mind, the records contained in the Scriptures. This thing was not done in a corner; neither are we without the record of it. The Scriptures are filled with the proofs of the resurrection of Christ, and they are open to all men for their consideration.

Bodily Resurrection.

But what are we to understand by the resurrection of Christ? Many talk today as if all that is meant by it is the continued existence of the personality of Jesus after death. Of course it means that, but as the very word itself indicates, it means the rising up of that which has fallen down, its standing forth again.

The resurrection of Christ, then, has to do with the body of our Lord, which was buried and in which he again stood forth from the grave. It means that the risen Christ is not a disembodied spirit, but a spirit embodied in that cement of which death robbed it. This is the teaching of our Lord himself. "Handle me and see: a spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see me have," was his word to his wondering and doubting disciples, when after the resurrection he stood in their midst. It is proved by the fact of the empty tomb, the disciples found on that Easter morning. It was an embodied Christ whom Mary mistook for the gardener. It was a corporeal being who walked and talked with the men on their way to Emmaus. It was Jesus in his risen body who ascended into heaven from the Mount of Olives.

German Critics Doomed.

Is it not a pity that German criticism has been allowed to dim this fundamental and precious truth of the bodily resurrection of our Lord? Let us vow that we are done with it and return to the teaching of the Scriptures. Perhaps this good thing, with many others, will come out of the war—that we will not permit German infidels and skeptics to interpret our Bible nor to do our thinking for us; nor accept their conclusions in spiritual things as final any more than in other things.

Too long has America breathed the foul gases of unbelief from the gas bombs exploded on our shores by the long-range religious guns of Germany. Is it not time to protect our sons and daughters, as well as ourselves, from German infidelity? Religious pro-Germans in professors' chairs and pulpits should be ejected. They are the puppets of German religious autocracy, that has tried to hold America and the rest of the world in the bondage of unbelief. We do not want German-made Christianity; we want the Christianity of the Bible, which offers peace to every troubled heart.

SOME PUDDINGS AND SAUCES

Banana Pudding—Three ripe bananas, one tablespoon granulated gelatin, one tablespoon lemon juice, a little grated lemon rind, one-quarter cup sugar, one cup evaporated milk, one-half cup water, one tablespoon red jelly. Soak the gelatin in two tablespoons of water ten minutes; dissolve in one-half cup boiling water; add lemon juice, rind and sugar and evaporated milk. Stir and scrape three very ripe bananas and crush through coarse strainer; add to gelatin mixture. Pour in glass bowl or ice cream glasses. Garnish with red jelly.

Sponge Pineapple Pudding—Put stale sponge cake in a pint mold or bowl, pouring over it as much thick pineapple juice as will moisten the cake; set in a cool place until serving time, then invert onto a dish and tap the bowl hard enough to allow the cake to slip out unbroken. Arrange sliced or grated pineapple around it.

Foaming Pudding Sauce—Beat one-quarter of a cup of butter to a cream; add gradually one-half cup sugar and beat until smooth and light. Add the whites of two eggs, unbeaten, one at a time, beating after each is added until the mixture is very light. When ready to serve put the mixture over hot water; add one-half cup of boiling water and one cup of grated pineapple, with or without one tablespoon of sherry. Stir until the sauce foams throughout, then serve hot at once.

Richelieu Sauce—Boll a cup of sugar with a couple of water for five minutes. Add a teaspoon cornstarch moistened with a little water. Cook until clear, remove from fire. Add one-half cup grated orange and a tablespoon of marshmallow. Mix well and when ready to serve stir in two tablespoons of chopped marshmallow cherries.

FOR THE TABLE

Quick Nut Bread—Four tablespoons corn syrup, two eggs, two tablespoons fat, three-quarters cup liquid, one-half cup mashed potatoes, two cups rolled oats (ground), three-eighths cup corn flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup chopped nuts. Mix in order given. Bake one and one-quarter hours in moderate oven. Raisins may be used in place of nuts.

Breadcrumb Muffins with Raisins—One cup flour, one cup breadcrumbs, one-half cup seeded raisins put through chopper, one and three-quarters cup milk, one egg, one tablespoon melted butter or oleomargarine, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt. Soak the breadcrumbs in the cold milk or rice stock for ten minutes; add the sifted flour, raisins, baking powder and salt; mix well; beat the muffin tins, brush with a little butter and put one tablespoon of mixture into each tin. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in hot oven.

SPRING STYLES—IN NEW ZEALAND

Maori maidens in New Zealand wearing straw coats.

During a recent Red Cross drive in Taihupo, New Zealand, the Maori maidens assisted the fund by displaying modes of their social set. The photo shows two of the girls in coats of Maori straw which are on a par with our fur creations. These straw coats would not be quite warm enough, however, for the northern climate.

His "Womanish Soul."

The French novelist Rolland, speaking of one of his characters in the great book, "Jean Christophe," says: "His was a womanish soul, with its eternal need of loving and being loved." For a man to be effeminate is always a reproach; to have this touch of womanliness is something quite different, and may go to the making of a very fine manhood.—Chicago News.

Trying To Select A Clever Valentine? Here Are Some New W. S. S. Suggestions

A new idea in Valentines is offered by the Thrift Stamp campaign which will continue through the year 1919, these valentines to be "hand made" and to contain verses similar to the following:

"For instance the following, from a man to maid, could be used on an ordinary sheet of letter paper, with a Thrift Stamp attached:

"I could not love thee, dear, so much, Loved I not honor more!"—A gallant lover truly said On going to the war.

These savings stamps I send to thee, A Victory Valentine, In them my love and honor I truly intertwine.

Here is a very libre valentine, which will make its own appeal:

This is a confession. Unskilled in vers libre, I feel, Nevertheless for a visit with friends, That I need the wide scope of its freedom.

To tell my love just why This little green square of paper

Should be my Valentine. Last year, there was a Maud, who liked roses Tea dances for Mabel, wearing my violet:

Susanna preferred To go to a show; and late suppers Expressed my homage to Jane. Then came you. All I had left To convince you my instant devotion. Was real, was the price of the War Savings Stamp!

But doesn't it symbolize Thousands of future roses, Dozens of suppers, dances and teas, For us two together?

This is my Valentine message. 'This for younger sweethearts: 'I've loved you since the age of nine, And so I send as a Valentine, This Thrift Stamp. It will tell you how 'Twill grow if you start saving now, And when you have sixteen, you see, A big War Saver it will be. And when we have enough of those, We'll buy a house and then, dear know, You'll simply have to marry me."

Take This Tip From Me

Note the difference between these two tips. In the wire wound broom often the finest, softest ends of the fibres must be trimmed off in order to make the tip even. Therefore, the harsh part of the fibres left to form the tip, make it stubby and inclined to spread—the fibres break and the tip quickly loses its shape.

Little Polly fibres—strengthened and toughened by the Kem bath Process—are measured to exact length before being built up into the broom. For this reason, the fine, soft fibres need not be sacrificed by clipping them away. Little Polly's full, beautiful tip wears straight to the handle. Ask your dealer or write to

The Largest and Best Illustrated Book On the War's History

How America Turned the Tide

The most glorious epoch in American history is included in the period of this country's participation in the great struggle. It was a period wherein the United States bridged the sea with ships, landed in Europe a trained army of more than two millions, and at CHATEAU-THIERRY, turned the tide of battle which, in a few short weeks, ended in complete victory for the forces fighting for civilization. The book traces every movement and development, from the inception of the German plot to restoration and reconstruction period.

Most Colossal Conspiracy of All Time

The Spark in the Powder Magazine of Europe placed there by Germany and her blood thirsty militarists.

Germany Branded Murderer

The entire German Nation seared, withered, and blackened with murder.

Europe Consumed

Europe consumed in Flames, Twenty-eight Nations involved. The Rape of Belgium, the destruction of Roumania, Serbia, Montenegro, and the chaotic Revolution that almost destroyed Russia. The killed numbering ten million, the maiming of thirty million and the cost to the world of two hundred and fifty billion dollars.

Unspeakable Atrocities

All these flaming atrocities are thrillingly described in word and picture in this volume.

Colored Features

Featuring Twelve De Luxe Colorgravures of War Leaders and Intense Situations and other Views, also Maps of the Continents and the Individual Countries affected by the War with the Formation of New Nations.

Extract From the Author's Foreword

Entertaining visualization of the war is best attained through photographs. For this reason this book has been profusely illustrated and the hundreds of scenes photographed during the four years of campaigning on all the great fronts, in themselves tell the narrative in a convincing manner. These pictures were taken by the most skilled men attached to the fighting forces. Many of them since America got into the war, are the official output of the Bureau of Public Information in Washington. Others were taken by men who risked their lives for a "close-up." The events of the war have been brought down to the present day. No vital episode of the struggle has been overlooked. The narrative is complete from the demolition of Liege to the signing of the terms of the armistice and the abdication of the Kaiser. It is hoped that it will do full justice to the sacrifice, courage, steadfastness in the face of apparent defeat, of the tireless fighting men of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Serbia and the United States.

America Turns the Tide

When England with her back to the wall fighting magnificently and heroically a losing battle and France and Italy fast waning, the Americans answered the appeal of Humanity and sent her ships loaded with Food and Supplies and backed up her advance aid by two million Fighting Yanks. Read especially the battles of Cantigny and Chateau Thierry. From those glorious beginnings the Americans and their Allies turned back the blood thirsty Huns and fought on to the Glorious and Victorious end.
